The Play ... “The Eckersley Rising”

Walter Midgley is a mild-mannered clerk in a local building company whose main interest in life is his amateur radio. He seems destined to remain stuck in a boring rut until one day he decides to do something extremely out of the ordinary for him, taking his sharp-tongued wife, Flo, completely by surprise ...

The author ... Tony Breeze, has written over twenty plays which have been performed by amateur groups from Peebles in Scotland to Perth in Australia. He is pleased to say that his latest full-length script, “My Father’s House” has just passed the first sift for development by a professional black London theatre company called “Talawa.” Tony also publishes other peoples’ plays with his own concern, The Playwrights Publishing Company.
