Storyline

The villagers of Pendon in Dorset form a committee and meet in the seedy ballroom of the Swan Hotel to discuss the planning of a summer pageant to attract visitors. The pageant is to be based on the little-known "Massacre of the Pendon Twelve."

It seems that in the eighteenth century two local agricultural workers, John Cockle and William Brunt, led an uprising against increased taxation, and this culminated in a meeting in the market square in Pendon (outside the present Swan Hotel).

The meeting was brought to an abrupt end with the arrival of the local militia led by the then Earl of Dorset. All the crowd fled but twelve brave men, who stood and faced them, all to no avail – the twelve were massacred.

Will the result be the same in the replay?
